Founder's Message

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

WE STAND FIRM

Dear Esteemed Partners, Supporters, and Champions of Hope,

Marginalized children living in rural communities are often denied access to quality education and essential resources that could bring them closer to their dreams. In response to this challenge, Spursbase Foundation was established to uplift, empower, and inspire children facing such circumstances to pursue their full potential.

In 2025, we launched impactful social interventions aimed at bridging educational inequality. These included the Mobile Library initiative at Mafi Seva, the Rural Community Innovation Challenge which reached 70 students, and the Nunana Project, which provided clothing to over 500 vulnerable children. These efforts were designed to close the gap faced by children living in marginalized conditions.

Highlighting our milestones, we successfully organized our first fundraising event, "Paint Tomorrow," hosted two virtual conferences, and made appearances on radio and television platforms, sparking national conversations around education equity.

None of this would have been possible without our valued partners. We are deeply grateful to Love Land Foundation for partnering with us on menstrual hygiene education at Awutu Bereku, reaching 125 pupils. Additional support from Aaenics Engineering LTD, Turf Device, C3 Ignite Church, Benchmark Marketing, and Ezer International powered key initiatives including Girls in ICT Day (650 girls), the Pad The Girl Campaign (211 girls and 147 boys), and the Read The World Literacy Program (162 students).

These interventions have created real, lasting change. Many beneficiaries are now free from pad poverty and actively developing new skills. The inspiring story of Dzidefo's robotics dream at Agorve D/A School stands as proof that a single intervention can unlock infinite potential. In total, we reached over 3,000 children and families across the Volta, North East, and Central Regions of Ghana.

Despite these remarkable achievements, several barriers limited the full realization of our goals. Cultural beliefs, varying perceptions of education, and community lifestyles posed challenges to delivering social services effectively. Additionally, systemic gaps and financial constraints hindered broader impact and sustainability.

As Myles Munroe once said, "The richest place on earth is the cemetery, because it holds untapped genius." We refuse to allow Ghana's brightest minds to fade unnoticed.

In 2026, we aim to scale even higher–expanding mobile libraries, deepening ICT access, and strengthening family empowerment initiatives. Your sponsorships, partnerships, and advocacy can transform the momentum of 2025 into a powerful national movement.

The future isn't promised–it's built.
Join us. For every child.

With unwavering gratitude and bold vision,

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

OUR MISSION

Spursbase Foundation was founded in 2019 by Raphael Kwame Akorli Afudzagbo, inspired by a powerful conviction: every child in Ghana's deprived communities deserves the tools to unlock their limitless potential.

At its core, Spursbase Foundation believes education is more than a right–it is the unbreakable chain that breaks poverty's grip, ignites innovation, and builds resilient nations.

From our earliest days, our mission has been unwavering: to empower the most marginalized children–those in rural Volta, North East, and Central Regions–with quality education, menstrual dignity, literacy resources, and family support. This conviction powered 2025's breakthroughs: launching Mobile Libraries at Mafi Seva, empowering 650 girls through Girls in ICT Day, clothing 500+ vulnerable children via Nunana Project, and reaching over 3,000 lives through relentless innovation.

Spursbase Foundation envisions education not as isolated classrooms, but as the foundation of thriving communities. Our goals are precise yet transformative: equipping underserved children with books and pads, training parents through Saving The Future, fostering rural innovation with 70 students, and dismantling menstrual stigma through boy-inclusive Pad The Girl campaigns reaching 358+ girls and boys.

By reaching those furthest behind–girls absent from class, children without uniforms, families trapped in poverty–Spursbase Foundation reduces inequality and cultivates Ghana's next generation of leaders, innovators, and dreamers.

Every Mobile Library stocked, every sanitary pad distributed, every parent empowered becomes healthier communities, confident students, and sustainable progress.

Spursbase Foundation's vision is a rallying cry: imagine Ghana where no child trades dreams for survival, where every classroom echoes with possibility, building a stronger nation for all.

VISION

We envision a world where all children, regardless of background, access education, healthcare, and essential resources to thrive, unlocking their potential to make meaningful, lasting contributions to their families and communities.

MISSION

To empower and support vulnerable children by ensuring access to quality education and nurturing their creativity, unique talents, and overall well-being, paving the way for a brighter, sustainable future.

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

OUR EVOLVING JOURNEY

Under our 2025 Expansion Strategy, Spursbase Foundation is implementing bold changes to deepen impact, ensure sustainability, and align with Ghana's educational priorities. We're moving from standalone projects toward integrated, community-led programming that transforms entire regions.

A multi-initiative partnership model has been launched, channeling resources into core themes–literacy, girls' empowerment, family resilience, and digital inclusion–while strengthening operations across Volta, North East, and Central Regions. This approach fosters cross-project synergy, from Mobile Libraries feeding into Read The World classes, to Nunana clothing enabling full Girls in ICT participation.

To diversify funding and secure lasting change, Spursbase Foundation piloted innovative community fundraising like "Paint Tomorrow" and hosted 2 virtual conferences with radio/TV appearances, attracting new corporate allies (Aaenics Engineering, Turf Device, C3 Ignite Church). These efforts complement traditional sponsorships, ensuring resilient financial pathways. In parallel, we're embedding family empowerment through Saving The Future programs, creating seamless transitions from parental savings to children's sustained education.

Our strategy emphasizes systemic transformation. 2025 projects incorporated teacher training (5 headteachers engaged), rural innovation challenges (70 students), and boy-inclusive menstrual education (358+ reached), supporting district education plans. In priority communities like Mafi Seva and Awutu Bereku, we're developing localized strategies aligned with Ghana Education Service goals.

Sustainability is embedded at every level:

- Scalable Design: Mobile Library model expandable to 10+ schools
- Local Ownership: Community-led Nunana distribution networks
- Impact Metrics: Tracked 3,000+ lives reached across.
- Exit Strategies: Parent savings groups ensure post-project continuity

PAD (Protecting and Developing) the Girl Child Campaign

DIGNITY THROUGH AWARENESS & ACTION

Hands-On Distribution: Staff and volunteers delivered sanitary pads, hygiene education, and boy-inclusive conversations across 8 schools in 3 regions–meeting girls' immediate menstrual needs while breaking stigma.

Virtual Advocacy Campaign: On May 20, 2025 (4:00-5:30 PM GMT via Google Meet), we hosted "Beyond The Pad"–a national virtual campaign amplifying thought leaders confronting period poverty beyond donations.

2025 Combined Impact:

- 416 girls + 272 boys reached through hands-on education (Central Tongu, Kunkwa JHS, Awutu Bereku)
- 100+ sanitary pads distributed + live demonstrations for 125 pupils
- National virtual conversation sparking sustainable menstrual health solutions
- Partners: Love Land Foundation, Benchmark Marketing, Ezer International

"To get money for pads, some girls had to work... facing risks like unplanned pregnancies. Now with pads, education, and conversations, we stay in class and become who we want to be."

- Bernice Axorlu

"A powerful moment from Beyond the Pad! We explored period poverty, sustainable menstrual health, and how education transforms lives."

Through integrated awareness + action, Pad The Girl became Ghana's comprehensive menstrual hygiene movement–restoring dignity, ensuring attendance, and redefining girlhood.

NUNANA PROJECT

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

CLOTHS OF BELONGING

500+

students and families supported in

The Nunana Project responds to a critical but often overlooked challenge affecting children from low-income households: the lack of adequate clothing for both home and school life. Many children attend school in distress or miss classes entirely due to insufficient clothing, worn-out footwear, or the absence of suitable items for daily living.

In 2025, Spursbase Foundation delivered home clothing, school-appropriate footwear, and essential wear items to vulnerable children and families across the Volta, North East, and Central Regions. By addressing clothing needs beyond the classroom, the project supported children's dignity at home while enabling confident and consistent school attendance.

- 500+ students and families supported in year
- Distribution of home wear, school shoes, and essential clothing
- Improved school attendance, participation, and learner confidence

The Nunana Project advances SDG 4.1 and 4.5 by reducing non-academic barriers to education. By meeting basic living and school-related needs, the project promotes inclusive, equitable access to quality education for vulnerable children.

- Reduced absenteeism linked to lack of clothing and footwear.
- Increased confidence and sense of belonging among learners.
- Improved participation in school and community life.

"When children are clothed with dignity at home, they show up to school ready to learn."

The Nunana Project affirms that education does not begin at the school gate–it begins at home. By restoring dignity through clothing support, Spursbase Foundation is helping children stay in school, learn confidently, and build a stronger foundation for the future.

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...
A MOMENT THAT SPARKED POSSIBILITY

At Awudome Senior High School, curiosity filled the room as 650 girls encountered technology not as observers, but as future creators. For many, it was the first time seeing digital tools as pathways to careers, leadership, and problem-solving. Questions flowed, confidence grew, and aspirations took shape.

In Q2 2025, Girls in ICT Day provided hands-on exposure to digital skills and conversations around STEM careers for girls at Awudome SHS.
Building on this momentum, a virtual education panel discussion held on 8 July 2025 brought together educators and education advocates under the theme:
"Bridging the Gap: Education That Reaches Every Corner."

650 girls engaged in ICT exposure and digital career awareness
Increased confidence and interest in technology and STEM pathways
Educators connected across regions through a national virtual dialogue
Shared insights on inclusive and equitable education delivery

SDG 4.4: Building relevant digital and academic skills
SDG 4.5: Reducing gender and geographic inequalities in education
SDG 5: Empowering girls to participate fully in technology and innovation

Strengthened aspirations among girls to pursue ICT-related careers
Improved understanding of digital opportunities in education
Practical strategies shared to expand education access in underserved communities

By pairing student-centered digital exposure with educator-led dialogue, this initiative advanced a shared vision: education that is inclusive, future-ready, and accessible to every child–especially girls.

Saving THE Future

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

A MOMENT THAT SPARKED POSSIBILITY

For many families, keeping a child in school is not a question of value but of affordability. Financial pressure at the household level often forces children out of school, reinforcing cycles of poverty and limited opportunity.

Through the Saving the Future project, Spursbase Foundation works directly with parents and caregivers–providing guidance and targeted financial support to help meet essential education-related needs. By strengthening families, the project ensures children can remain in school and continue learning without disruption.

Parents engaged and supported to prioritize their children's education
Financial barriers to school attendance reduced
Children supported to remain enrolled and attend school consistently
Families empowered to invest in long-term educational outcomes

SDG 4.1 & 4.5: Promoting inclusive and equitable access to education
SDG 1: Reducing poverty-related barriers that limit learning

Improved school retention among beneficiary children
Increased parental involvement in education decisions
Strengthened pathways toward breaking the cycle of poverty

Through Saving the Future, Spursbase Foundation demonstrates that supporting parents is essential to securing children's educational futures. By easing financial pressure at home, the project helps children stay in school and build foundations for a more secure and hopeful tomorrow.

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...

RURAL INNOVATION CHALLENGE

At Mafi Wudzrolo Primary School, students were challenged to look beyond the classroom and into their own community. Guided to observe problems, ask questions, and imagine solutions, learning quickly became practical, creative, and purpose-driven.

This quarter, Spursbase Foundation launched the Rural Community Innovation Challenge Program at Mafi Wudzrolo Primary School, engaging 70 pupils in hands-on innovation activities. The program encouraged students to identify real community challenges and develop simple, locally relevant solutions.

70 students engaged in innovation and problem-solving
Increased creativity, teamwork, and critical thinking skills
Students empowered to view themselves as solution creators

TEACHERS ENGAGEMENT PROGRAM

Quality education is sustained by empowered educators. Recognizing this, the Teachers Engagement Program created a space for school leaders to reflect, share challenges, and co-create practical solutions that strengthen teaching and learning environments.

This period, Spursbase Foundation convened 5 headteachers from partner schools for a focused engagement session. The discussion centered on shared challenges, peer learning, and collaborative strategies to improve educational outcomes within their schools.

The Teachers Engagement Program underscores the role of collaborative leadership in improving education quality. By supporting headteachers to learn from one another, Spursbase Foundation is strengthening school systems and creating better learning environments for students.

READ THE WORLD PROGRAM

When children learn to read with confidence, new worlds open before them. Literacy and numeracy are foundational to learning, yet many children in rural communities lack consistent support to strengthen these skills.

Read The World is Spursbase Foundation's flagship literacy initiative, designed to enhance reading, comprehension, and numeracy skills through in-school support and structured vacation learning.

Q1 2025: Supported 35 students at Mafi Adiekpe Primary School, providing learning resources and guided reading activities to improve comprehension and confidence.
Vacation Classes: Engaged 127 students at Mafi Seva during vacation classes, helping learners strengthen literacy and numeracy skills while reducing learning loss.

Improved reading fluency and comprehension
Strengthened numeracy skills through guided activities
Increased learner confidence and participation
Continuous learning support beyond the regular school term

SDG 4.1: Quality primary education
SDG 4.6: Literacy and numeracy for all

Through Read The World, Spursbase Foundation continues to strengthen foundational learning for children in underserved communities. By supporting learning both during the school term and vacations, the program ensures that no child is left behind in their journey to read, learn, and succeed.

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...
MOBILE LIBRARY INITIATIVE

During the school vacation at Mafi Seva, learning did not pause. Instead, books came closer to students–transforming free time into moments of discovery, imagination, and growth.

During the Read The World vacation classes, Spursbase Foundation launched the Mobile Library Initiative at Mafi Seva, providing access to a diverse collection of books for over 127 students. The initiative brought reading materials directly to learners, extending literacy support beyond the classroom.

127+ students reached with age-appropriate reading materials
Daily reading habits encouraged during school breaks
Language development supported beyond formal lessons

SDG Contribution
SDG 4.1: Improving quality primary education

SDG 4.6: Advancing literacy for children

Access to books is essential for building strong literacy skills. By increasing availability of reading materials during school breaks, Spursbase Foundation promotes lifelong learning, strengthens academic performance, and supports children's personal development.

The Mobile Library Initiative demonstrates that learning does not have to stop when school closes. By bringing books directly to children, Spursbase Foundation is fostering a culture of reading and ensuring continuous learning for students in underserved communities.

LOST IN GLAZED WORLD BY NUBUKE

Lost in a Glazed World was an immersive costume and ceramic art experience organised by Nubuke, in partnership with Accra District Art, in support of Spursbase Foundation and Culinary for Social Change.

Held on 17 April 2025, the event brought together art, creativity, and social impact. Participants attended in imaginative costumes inspired by alternative realities and took part in a guided sip-and-paint ceramic experience, creating a vibrant and engaging atmosphere.

As part of the event's social impact, clothing donations were made to support Spursbase Foundation's Nunana Project, helping provide clothing for vulnerable children and families.

- Strengthened partnerships between the arts and social impact sectors

A RIGHT

For many children in rural communities, poverty quietly pushes education out of reach. Uniforms wear thin, books are scarce, and families must choose between survival and schooling. Attendance drops. Confidence fades. Dreams pause.

Bernice loved school, but every month, she faced a quiet fear.

When she didn't have sanitary pads, she stayed home. Sitting in class without them felt unsafe and humiliating. She once explained that "to get money for pads, some girls had to work, and that exposed them to risks like unplanned pregnancies and dropping out of school." She worried that missing lessons would slowly push her out of school too.

Everything changed when Spursbase Foundation, through the (PAD The Girl Child) Protecting and Developing the Girl Child Campaign, reached her school.

Bernice received sanitary pads, learned about menstrual health, and-most importantly-saw menstruation spoken about openly. Boys were included in the conversations, helping to break the silence and stigma that had kept girls like her away from class.

Today, Bernice stays in school with confidence. She no longer counts days in fear or hides at home during her period. With quiet pride, she says, "With the pads given to us, we will be able to stay in class and become who we want to be."
Her story is a reminder that when girls are given dignity and support, education continues-and futures remain possible.

For every visionary, the right to quality education demands action. We act.

At Spursbase Foundation, we stand firm in our belief that access to quality education is a fundamental right for every child.

INNOVATION WITHOUT LIMITS

At the heart of Spursbase Foundation's mission is empowering young lives through education and opportunity. In 2025, Spursbase deepened this commitment for children like Dzidefo, ensuring not only access to learning but the confidence, tools, and support to step boldly into their futures.

For every visionary, we don't just spark curiosity we ignite possibilities.

Dzidefo

Dzidefo, 16, dreamed of being a lawyer or journalist–and secretly, a tech innovator building robots. Growing up in a rural community, opportunities to explore technology felt out of reach.

When he joined the Rural Community Innovation Challenge, everything changed. He learned creative thinking, problem-solving, and innovation–and for the first time, his ideas had a platform.

"One day, I'll build a robot I can control with my phone," Dzidefo shared.

Through the program, he transformed from a quiet dreamer to a confident problem-solver. His story shows that talent exists everywhere–but opportunity does not. Spursbase Foundation is proving that rural children can lead the future of technology when given the chance.

Now, Dzidefo dreams bigger than ever. With the skills, mentorship, and encouragement he has received, he is determined to turn his ideas into real solutions that can benefit his community and inspire other young innovators across rural Ghana.

A VOICE

A child's voice is a spark of possibility–but too often, it goes unheard. When classrooms lack resources, mentorship is limited, or opportunities feel out of reach, potential can be silenced before it even has a chance to shine.

At Spursbase Foundation, we believe every young voice matters. By creating safe, supportive spaces, we've helped school attendance rise to 85% and girls' engagement increase to 80%, transforming timid students into confident learners who speak, share ideas, and lead.

Because when a child's voice is nurtured, potential rises–and communities thrive. Spursbase Foundation is bridging the gaps, ensuring that education is not just access, but opportunity, empowerment, and impact.

Access to education and safe, supportive learning spaces can mean the difference between a dream deferred and a future realized.

At her rural school, Edith faced challenges that often silenced young girls: limited mentorship, few opportunities to speak up, and scarce resources to pursue her ambitions.

For Edith, a bright student who dreams of becoming a journalist, these obstacles once made it difficult to participate fully in class and share her ideas. But in 2025, through Spursbase Foundation's programs, she gained access to mentorship, safe learning spaces, and practical tools to explore her interests.

She began to stand tall–not just pursuing her own dreams, but teaching her peers about menstrual hygiene, showing leadership and care beyond her age.

What began as support for individual learners soon strengthened the whole classroom: girls' engagement increased to 80%, attendance rose, and timid students began speaking up with confidence. Edith's journey is proof that when children are given the opportunity to learn, lead, and be heard, their voices–and their potential–cannot be contained.

A child's voice flourishes in environments that nurture, include, and inspire.

FOR EVERY VISIONARY...
A PROMISE

Every child carries untapped genius. Yet across Ghana's rural and underserved communities, access to the opportunities that awaken that genius remains out of reach.

A child's dream may begin with a single book, a uniform worn with pride, or the courage to return to class. For some, it is the simple hope of staying in school. For others, it is the dignity of learning without shame, hunger, or fear.

For a girl, a dream can be as basic as having the sanitary products and confidence needed to remain in the classroom. For a boy, it may be the chance to explore ideas beyond survival, to imagine solutions, to build, to create, to lead. For many young people, a dream is the freedom to learn without barriers–without stigma, distance, or neglect.

For students in rural communities, a dream is access: to books that stretch the imagination, to technology that unlocks possibility, to safe spaces that nurture curiosity and growth. It is the opportunity to discover potential where none was expected.

For educators, a dream is a classroom alive with engagement, where limited resources do not limit ambition, and where knowledge becomes a tool for community transformation.
At Spursbase Foundation, we see these dreams not as distant wishes, but as promises that demand action.

Injustice wears many faces: period poverty that keeps girls home, lack of learning materials that starves young minds, poverty that forces children to choose survival over school. Its echo is always the same–a child left behind, a teacher without tools, a future placed at risk.

We confront this injustice with resolve. With compassion. With action.

Education is not charity. It is survival. It is dignity. It is the most powerful pathway to equity, opportunity, and lasting change.

This belief drives our work. It lives in every program we deliver, every partnership we build, and every child we stand beside.

For every child, we promise to create the opportunity for their potential to rise.

A NETWORK OF PURPOSE-DRIVEN PARTNERS

Our partnerships are grounded in shared values, mutual accountability, and a collective commitment to ensure that no child is left behind because of where they are born.

At Spursbase Foundation, we understand that lasting impact is never achieved alone. Advancing equitable, quality education–especially in underserved rural and peri-urban communities–requires collaboration across sectors and communities. Our work is strengthened by trusted partners including local organisations, faith-based institutions, private sector allies, media platforms, educators, volunteers, and individual donors who believe in the power of opportunity.

Each partnership plays a vital role: mobilising resources, amplifying voices, delivering programmes, and strengthening systems that support children, families, and schools. Together, we turn shared purpose into collective action and measurable impact.

For every child, we are building partnerships that unlock possibility and create pathways to brighter futures.

Our work matters because we build it together.

AMPLIFYING OUR MISSION

In 2025, Spursbase Foundation strengthened its public voice by engaging local media platforms to amplify conversations around education access, child dignity, and community-driven development.

Through strategic radio and television engagements, our work reached diverse audiences across urban and regional Ghana, increasing awareness, credibility, and community participation in our mission.

Hub

For every child, we remain determined. Every girl protected, every reader empowered, every innovator launched, and every conversation sparked builds a Ghana where no child's potential is wasted.

We are not just a foundation. We are a promise kept.

NAVIGATING THE HORIZON

To ensure every child unlocks their potential, Spursbase Foundation remains focused on the future-relentless in bridging Ghana's rural education gaps. Our blueprint is bold yet grounded: invest in communities, empower families, deliver sustainable transformation.

We invite all who share this mission to join us in forging an educated Ghana where no child is left behind.

REFLECTIONS FROM 2025

Working in underserved rural communities has never been straightforward. In 2025, rising economic pressures, deepening inequalities, and persistent gaps in basic education resources continued to shape the realities faced by children, families, and schools across the Volta, North East, and Central Regions.

We saw the effects firsthand: classrooms short of textbooks, girls missing lessons due to period poverty, children staying home because they lacked uniforms or shoes, and parents struggling to keep their children in school amid increasing costs. Teachers remained committed, yet overstretched, often working without the tools needed to fully support their students.

At Spursbase Foundation, our response in 2025 had to be practical, adaptive, and rooted in the lived experiences of the communities we serve. We listened closely and worked alongside parents, educators, and local leaders to design solutions that restored dignity and sustained learning-mobile libraries that carried books beyond classroom walls, menstrual health interventions that kept girls in school, innovation challenges that nurtured problem-solving skills, and family support initiatives that helped prevent dropouts.

This year reinforced a critical lesson: education in fragile and resource-constrained settings must be flexible, community-led, and human-centred. Impact is not only measured by reach, but by continuity-ensuring children stay in school, feel valued, and are equipped to learn despite the barriers around them.

Our reflections from 2025 continue to shape how we move forward. They remind us that meaningful change requires patience, partnership, and presence. Even in contexts of scarcity, progress is possible when communities are supported, dignity is prioritised, and every child is given the opportunity to learn, dream, and build a better future.

Miatia. Let's Choose education. Let's Choose a future.

EMPOWER FAMILIES TO BUILD A BETTER TOMORROW

At Spursbase Foundation, we believe that strengthening families is essential to breaking cycles of poverty and ensuring children can thrive. When parents and guardians are supported to become self-reliant, they are better able to create stable, nurturing environments where education remains a priority.

In the communities we serve, some children become parents while still in school. Without support, many young mothers are forced to drop out entirely, not because they lack ambition, but because financial pressure leaves them with no alternative. Empowering caregivers–including young parents–helps keep education within reach for both parent and child.

With a monthly contribution of 250, $40, or €35 for 24 months, you can support a parent or guardian to start or grow a small business, enabling them to:

- Provide for their family's basic needs
- Support their children's education, including young mothers returning to school
- Build sustainable livelihoods and regain financial stability

Together, we can create a dignified safety net–one that gives families the tools to rise, restores hope, and ensures education is not lost to circumstance but strengthened through opportunity.

THE PROMISE WE KEEP

For every child who dares to dream, every young person striving to rise beyond circumstance, and every educator nurturing hope with limited resources, Spursbase Foundation stands present and committed.

Our promise is not only education.
It is dignity.
It is opportunity.
It is the belief that no child's future should be determined by poverty, gender, or geography.

We strengthen learning environments, support families, and equip educators and young people with the tools they need to thrive. From classrooms to communities, from books to skills, from protection to possibility–we work to remove barriers and open pathways.

With every child kept in school, every voice amplified, and every obstacle challenged, we reaffirm our commitment to education as the most powerful force for lasting change.

We move forward with purpose, grounded in community and driven by hope–certain that for every dreamer, a future is possible.

This is the promise we keep.
